Large Canvas in Eleven Sections Arrives in Gettysburg in Special Car. Will be Hung at once in Cyclorama Building.

The world-famous Philippoteaux painting of the Battle of Gettysburg arrived in Gettysburg this morning and was conveyed to the cyclorama building where the picture will be hung at once.

After many years of endeavor to provide a permanent home for the masterpiece of the French artist, Paul Philippoteaux, it seems that one has at last been found, and that at Gettysburg, where many have always thought it would be permanently located.

The painting is in eleven sections and is twenty eight feet in height. It will extend practically the entire way around the interior of the new building, and is expected to be ready for exhibition purposes in a short while. For the past year it has been stored in the Capitol at Washington and for some time before being taken there was in the Pension Office. It was brought here in a large automobile freight car and at once unloaded. The painting was so heavy that a number of trips with a large wagon were required to convey the various sections from the freight depot to the cyclorama building.

Work at the new structure is now proceeding satisfactorily and everything will be finished before the tourist business of the summer starts with any volume. An entrance fee of twenty five cents is to be charged and considerable revenue is expected from this source during the coming months.

YORK SPRINGS

York Springs—Rev. Paul Gladfelter, went to Seven Valleys on Friday and returned on Tuesday accompanied by Mrs. Gladfelter and Miss Marguerite, who had been spending the last three weeks at Seven Valleys.

D. Ralph Starry has been re-elected ward principal of the public schools of Westfield, N. J., at a salary of $1350 per year. Mr. Starry will take a crowd of boys camping again this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. George Neff, Miss Alice Neff and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Peterman, of York, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Emmert over Sunday.

Misses Elsie Johns and Marguerite Emmert, of Shippensburg Normal School, are home for the week.

Earl Schaffer, who is connected with the Mutual Life Insurance Co., with his headquarters at Erie, was the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Schaffer several days recently.

Mrs. Anna Wanner has returned home from Carlisle.

FIRE NEAR CALEDONIA

Fire-Bugs Burn much State Land Near Caledonia.

Fire bugs, two men, were seen to set fire to the forest on the State land about two miles southeast of Caledonia on Monday. They were not apprehended, but as a result of their work 300 acres of good timber were burned and it took six hours of stiff fighting by State students, rangers and fighters to extinguish the fierce fire. On the tract were many pin-oak, pitch-pine and other valuable trees. The flames burned to the edge of a plantation to which Forester McNeal had just added a few days before 5,000 seedlings. A line of provision supplies was kept open from the ridge to Graeffenburg Inn for the hard-pressed men.

Funeral at 9:30 Saturday morning from St. Francis Xavier church. Interment in the Catholic Cemetery.

LOSES FIGHT

Mrs. Longstreet Fails to Get Appointment as Postmistress.

Mrs. Helen Longstreet, widow of the famous Confederate general, Wednesday lost her fight for reappointment as postmistress of Gainesville, Ga. Mrs. H. W. J. Hamm was nominated to the office after President Wilson had consulted the Georgia Senators. It was learned that Postmaster-General Burleson's reports of the condition of the post-office over which Mrs. Longstreet presided alleged that the office was poorly managed.

Much interest had been manifested in the appointment, and Mrs. Longstreet's friends had flooded the White House with telegrams and petitions in her behalf. An appeal setting out her fears that influences were working against her appointment or her confirmation was sent to the Senate Wednesday by Mrs. Longstreet.

ANCIENT BARREL

Whiskey Barrel More Than a Century Old in York County.

A. E. Kline, of Siddonsburg, York county, has a whiskey barrel in his possession that is 130 years old. The barrel is made of straw and is such a curiosity that it has attracted visitors from other sections of the state. Besides its great age, the manner in which it is made is of interest. The straw is plaited, and so closely that it is as water tight as if made of wood. In the Revolutionary period, antiquarians say, barrels were frequently made in this manner.

COMING FROM THE FAR WEST

State of Washington Reports a Large Delegation of Veterans Coming for Celebration of the Battle Anniversary.

The state of Washington is certain to have a large delegation of survivors of the battle of Gettysburg at the anniversary celebration here in July.

Adjutant General Fred Llewellyn, of the Washington National Guard announced in Spokane that 140 survivors of the battle had made application to attend at the state's expense. More are expected the next few weeks.

Washington's delegation will make the cross-continent journey organized according to districts, each with its commanding officer, adjutant, quartermaster and commissary officer.

At the recent session of the legislature $15,000 was appropriated to pay the expenses of veterans to the reunion. The appropriation will be disbursed by the state board of finance, consisting of Governor Ernest Lister, State Treasurer Edward Meath and State Auditor C. W. Clausen. Adjutant General Llewellyn has the duty of receiving and investigating applications.

Reports received from other states west of the Mississippi show that each will send a large number of old soldiers and the camp will likely have delegates from every state in the Union.

Only a few weeks remain for the states to notify the Commission of the number they expect to send and then the task of distributing the veterans in the camp will be taken up. They will all camp by states and then by smaller organizations in the section allotted to the state from which they come.

BUSY WITH THE ANNUAL CLEAN-UP

So Much Rubbish Gathered that Borough Highway Force Find it Impossible to Complete the Work in One Day.

Gettysburg's highway force will be kept busy for several days cleaning up the rubbish which they found deposited in the alleys in all parts of town this morning when they started out to perform their portion of the duty of cleaning up the place.

Many residents waited until the last minute to put out their tin cans, broken bottles, ashes and other undesirable debris and it is said that as late as midnight Wednesday the rattle of the tin can could be heard in various town alleys. A remarkable quantity of stuff presented itself to Street Commissioner Newman and his force of men when they began work and it was at once seen that not every section could be cleaned up during the day. The work will be continued until it is entirely finished.

While the highway force is performing this duty, the squad of hoboes, sentenced to three days' work by Burgess Holtzworth on Wednesday afternoon was actively engaged sweeping up Centre Square and streets starting from that point. Quantities of dust were removed and in the central portion of town, at least, some of the preliminary work to the treatment with Tervia will be found completed when the contractors arrive, and until then residents will find conditions much more comfortable than before.

People generally took the day to doing some little work about their homes with a view to beautifying them and the second municipal house cleaning day of Gettysburg was up to the standard set by the original occasion one year ago.

IN BIG LEAGUE

Gettysburg Included in Large Basketball League now Forming.

Efforts will be made next fall and winter to make basketball one of the favored sports of the smaller colleges of Pennsylvania and with that end in view a league is being formed that will take in almost every institution that now caters to basketball and some others which do not.

Three divisions of the league in this State have been partially organized. Swarthmore, Lehigh, and Franklin and Marshall will be three of the five colleges in the first division with Muhlenberg and Lafayette as possibilities. Lafayette is considering the adoption of basketball. Gettysburg and Bucknell are the two colleges who are sure members of the second division, the middle section of the State. The other three possibilities in this section are Susquehanna, Dickinson and Albright, Pittsburgh and State College are the sure clubs in the third division—the western section of the State—with Washington and Jefferson, Allegheny and Grove City as the most likely trio for the other places.

So that the championship of the State may be decided, the winners of the three divisions will meet in home matches to determine which is the better team. Should this be impossible because of financial difficulties, the winners of divisions one and two will play and the winner will meet the honor team in division three.

COSTLY ACTION

License Agitation in Emmitsburg Proved Costly Affair.

Edward H. Rowe, of Emmitsburg, through his attorneys Wood & Wood, has presented a petition in Frederick County court asking that he be relieved from paying the costs of the petitioner in the matter of a protest against a license being granted to Lawrence L. Mundorff, who was granted a license to sell liquor at the Emmitt House.

Judge Worthington set May 15 as the date for a hearing in the matter, and for Mundorff to show cause why the petition should not be granted. The costs to Mr. Rowe are about $75. The costs which have been paid by Mr. Mundorff were nearly $50.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Valley of Desolation.

WHILE Early's troops were still running and Sheridan's reveling, the customary sad truce was declared in order to permit the removal of the wounded from the field and the decent disposal of the dead. Not only soldiers, but civilians from far and near looked upon the scene. From Winchester,

Kernstown, Newtown, Middletown, up from the valley and down from the mountains came men and women, searching amid the heaped up horrors where late the battle lines had stood.

Some came for love and some—alas—for loot. Sunset reddened the ghastly field; then fell the inkly pall of night and the lanterns of the ghostly ministrants twinkled in the gloom far beyond the circling camps.

Gertrude Ellingham, Madeline West

and Jenny Buckthorn, led by Sergeant

Barker and followed by the faithful

Josephus, made up one of the most indefatigable groups of rescuers. They had ascertained that Kerchival West was not among the living Federal troops, either in the celebrating camps or in the hospital tents. Now at last they sought a pitiful, uncertain comfort in satisfying themselves that he was not among the dead on the field.

"General Haverill told me," said Gertrude, "that although our—I mean the southern—troops defeated they managed to carry off a considerable number of prisoners. I believe Colonel West is among them."

"I know Captain Heartsease is," murmured Jenny forlornly.

"If nothing worse has befallen my brother than that," added Madeline, "I suppose I ought to be thankful, as at least he will not be out of the awful fighting. But it is a cruel injustice

if that wicked wretch, Captain Thornton, is still to be at large."

They rode on in silence—for General

Buckthorn had seen it—that they were provided with mounts—until at last Gertrude exclaimed:

"I can't rest any way. I'm going on.

Josephus will follow me. You girls will be all right—won't you, dears?"

"Where are you going?" cried the other two aghast.

"On to the ford, and then to Fisher's hill, or Strasburg, or wherever they have gone. Don't mind me. I'll bring you comforting news, or I won't come back at all. Good night."

And before they could persuade her —that was what she fled from now, as from unbearable torture—she rode off exultantly into the darkness of the mountain shadows like another Valkyrie bearing her stricken warrior's soul to the glorious and blissful Valhalla.

Belle Bosquet was deserted. For months around stretched the heart sick ending panorama of fenceless, trampled fields, ruined farms and empty granaries.

For Sheridan had accomplished only too literally the fearsome task assigned him by General Grant:

"In pushing up the Shenandoah valley . . . it is desirable that nothing should be left to invite the enemy to return. Take all provisions, forage and stock wanted for the use of your command. Such as cannot be consumed destroy."

The same destitution that compelled

Early to retreat as far as Newmarket, forty miles south of Cedar Creek, to supply and reorganize the broken Confederate forces prevented Sheridan from following them into this region. His cavalry, however, during this pause in the movements of the main army was set about a campaign against the guerrilla bands of Mosby and Gilmore.

It was not until a fortnight after the battle of Cedar Creek that Gertrude Ellingham and the small party of friends and neighbors who journeyed with her and likewise followed the path of necessity, as well as of duty and affection, in moving southward

after the army, came up with the corps that had been General Ramseur's and which included her brother Robert's regiment.

But General Ramseur had been killed,

the cavalry was for the most part dismounted, and Colonel Ellingham's precise whereabouts could not be ascertained. He had gone out on a raid with the irregulars who were harassing search, Gertrude declared, but she had the courage to resolve that love should win. Her home was broken up, the valley desolated, and the cause upon which all had been staked was narrowing down to a deadly crisis where mere self interest, fortune, even life itself, had to be thrown unhesitatingly into the balance.

While she waited at Staunton for some clue, some enlightenment to determine what direction her pilgrimage should take now that the winter was about setting in a detachment of the wild mounted troops came up the valley from a successful raid on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad in West Virginia. A hearded savage rushed with a glad cry at Gertrude and she was laughing and crying in her brother's arms.

"Oh, Rob," she faltered, "I was beginning to think I should never see you again nor any one else I loved."

"Don't give up, sis," he rejoined, but his tone was worried and serious. "We are not beaten yet. If we have to leave the valley the enemy can't stay here either. He is trying to prevent us from joining General Lee at Peter-burg, but in the meantime we are keeping him and an army bigger than all our forces put together from going to help General Grant, who, after all,

is no nearer to Richmond than Mc-Clellan was two years and a half ago."

"Oh, never mind the armies now!"

Where can I find those two poor prisoners?"

Bob shook his head and paced the floor in troubled silence.

"Where is Thornton now?" asked

Gertrude anxiously.

"To my certain knowledge he is keeping in touch with Mosby at Leesburg or Upperville. It is not at all likely he even knows that Kerchival was captured at Cedar Creek. But he is such a vindictive devil that I suppose he will always be looking out for the satisfaction of his private revenge before the interests of the service."

In the Federal camps at Kernstown and Winchester the bustle of confident activity and a general air of hopeful expectation were as marked as the spirit of grim, dogged determination was behind the scenes at Confederate headquarters. At the beginning of the

MILITANTS TRY TO WRECK ST. PAUL'S

Bomb Found Under Altar of Famous London Church.

ARSON SQUAD STARTS FIRES

British Suffragettes Open War of Revenge For Defeat of Their Bill by Parliament.

London, May 8.—An attempt made to wreck the ancient St. Paul's Cathedral by a bomb is attributed to the militant suffragettes.

The verger who conducts sightseers through the massive edifice was making his rounds when he heard a ticking sound near the high altar. Upon investigation he found hidden a heavy parcel done up in brown paper. He immediately placed it in water and handed it over to the police, who found a suffragette newspaper wrapped up with the bomb.

This attempt and the placing of two other bombs in other parts of London made it appear that the militant suffragettes had entered anew on their hove-to-working campaign following the defeat of the woman suffrage bill in the house of commons.

Shortly after the discovery at St. Paul's Cathedral the police found a similar bomblike package on the steps of a newspaper office in Fleet street, and a tin canister believed to contain explosives was picked up on the steps of a wholesale drug establishment near St. Paul's Cathedral.

No arrests were made following the discoveries, and it is doubtful if the police have clues to the identity of the bomb throwers.

The bomb from the cathedral was examined at the Bridewell police station and later at the home office by government experts.

The bomb was painted black and contained two detonators attached to an electric battery. It was filled with slugs of a hard black substance resembling coal. There is no doubt, the police say, that it was placed in position by militant suffragettes or persons in their employ.

The general public is admitted to the choir and aisles of St. Paul's Cathedral between eleven o'clock in the morning and half-past three in the afternoon. The cathedral was closed entirely at six o'clock in the evening, and it appears certain that the bomb was deposited before that hour.

"Small but fiendishly powerful," is the police officer's description of the bomb found near the high altar of St. Paul's Cathedral. When the machine was taken to pieces it was discovered that it was timed to explode at midnight, but a derangement of the clock work retarded the explosion. Apparently only this accident prevented untold damage to the cathedral. A number of brass screws, nails and coarse metal slugs were found among the contents.

Plain clothes policemen have been on duty in St. Paul's for several weeks for the express purpose of preventing militant suffragette outbreaks.

Suffragette "arson squads" also burned down a pavilion on the cricket field at Bishop's Park, Fulham, in the West End of London, and also set fire to an unoccupied house at Finchley, in the North of London. Suffragette placards and quantities of chemicals were found in the vicinity of both fires.

Another mysterious fire broke out at a timber yard in Lambeth, the fourth of this kind in London within a few days. It was extinguished before much damage was done.

The defeat of the woman suffrage bill in the house of commons is generally attributed by the newspapers to the women themselves—the militant ones, whose wild law-breaking tactics alienated the sympathies of suffrage supporters.

The Times says that the embarrassment that the militants have inflicted on the cause lay like a dead weight over the whole course of the debate on the bill in the commons.

GIRL'S BODY IN POND

Ada Hoffman, Authorities Think, May Have Been Killed.

Newark, N. J., May 8.—With a tear in the skirt giving evidence of a struggle, the body of Ada Hoffman, aged twenty-three years, a domestic employed by Mrs. Frank L. Lawrence, of Short Hills, was found in Swan's pond, between Millburn and Short Hills.

The identification was made by Gustave Maltize, who said he was to have married the young woman next Saturday. The authorities are working on a theory of possible murder.

Wilson Again at Capitol

Washington, May 8.—President Wilson made another visit to the capitol to talk with senators about appointments. The visit was not planned in advance, but as the president's engagements cleared up shortly before three o'clock, he determined to make the trip. It was his fourth visit to the capitol since he took office.

German Navy Officer and 2 Men Drown

Cuxhaven, Germany, May 8.—Senior Lieutenant George Von Zastrow, of the German navy, and two enlisted men were drowned by the capsizing of the pine of the torpedo boat G-89 of the island of Sylt. Lieutenant Von Zastrow was the commander of the vessel.

Carnegie An American Citizen

New York, May 8.—"Mr. Carnegie is an American citizen," said James Bertram, his private secretary. "He became so without naturalization, because he came here as a minor when he was eleven years old, and his father was naturalized before he became of age. If he is registered as a voter in Scotland he had nothing to do with it personally. He is a property owner there and his name probably appears on the registry list in connection with that fact. He could not vote in that country because he is an alien there."

FRANK O. BRIGGS

Former Senator From New Jersey Critically Ill.

F. O. BRIGGS SERIOUSLY ILL

Condition of Former Senator From New Jersey Alarms Family.

Trenton, N. J., May 8.—The illness of former United States Senator Frank O. Briggs has taken an alarming turn, and his condition is reported as serious.

He has been in his home in Trenton for the past four weeks, suffering from a complication of diseases, aggravated by an attack of grip. Mr. Briggs has been ill for several years. The complications make it extremely difficult for him to take nourishment.

TO REMOVE POLITICS FROM POSTOFFICES

To Place 2d and 3d Class Offices in Classified Service.

Washington, May 8.—Postmaster General Burleson announced that it was the purpose of President Wilson and himself to take into the classified service, probably within the next year, all postmasters of the second and third classes.

After a conference with President Wilson the postmaster general also announced that all fourth class postmasters now in office and candidates for appointment would be subjected to a competitive examination to determine their fitness for the office. These men were placed in the classified service by President Taft toward the end of his term.

The postmaster general issued a statement saying that President Taft's action in placing "a great horde of persons" in the classified service was not in conformity with the spirit of the civil service, as there had been no tests to determine the merits of the applicants.

The new order outlined retains in the classified service all fourth class postmasters, but requires a selection from among the first three eligible applicants. The age limit for applicants is sixty-five years.

Mr. Burleson indicated that the administration wished to take the fourth class postmasters out of politics, but pointed out that Democrats as well as Republicans would have an opportunity to qualify.

SEEKS J. B. FOR TRUST VICTIM

Representative Stanley Befriends B. S. Kauffman of Coatesville.

Washington, May 8.—Representative Stanley, chairman of the committee which investigated the "steel trust," urged President Wilson to appoint to a federal position B. S. Kauffman, a printer of Coatesville, Pa.

Stanley declared that Kauffman had been ruined because he had testified against the trust. Kauffman at the time told the committee he feared retaliation.

"His apprehension was well founded," Mr. Stanley wrote to the president. "He has been boycotted by the business interests which the Lukens iron company controls and is today a hopeless bankrupt, an honest citizen, and in my opinion it is an outrage that he should be made to suffer for so genuine a service to the public."

Dies In Fire: Shock Kills Her Mother

Youngstown, O., May 8.—Mrs. John Fleming, aged fifty-two years, was burned to death when she attempted to light a quick fire with coal oil at her home in Miles. Her aged mother, Mrs. Mary Shira, attacked with heart disease, died a few minutes later. The father and son who were upstairs, escaped by crawling onto an adjoining roof and sliding to the ground. The house was destroyed.

Mine Workers Oppose Strike

Louist Gap, Pa., May 8.—United Mine Workers stopped men on their way to work to learn if they were paid by union men. Some delinquents and non-unionists were discovered. Instead of going on strike the United Mine Workers entered the mine, resolved to keep it in operation and use methods other than forcing a closing down of the colliery.

Bee Causes Trolley Accident

Philadelphia, May 8.—The buzzing of a persistent bee so frightened the motorman of a Wayne avenue car that he left his post and the car ran wild, smashing into two wagons and causing a panic among the passengers thirteen of whom were injured.

$10,000 For Vice Commission

Harrisburg, Pa., May 8.—The house passed the resolution establishing a commission to investigate the white slave traffic. Ten thousand dollars are appropriated for expenses. The resolution now goes to the senate.

TWO MOTORISTS DEAD IN CRASH

Machine Crushed Between Trolley and Wall of Bridge.

WERE INSTANTLY KILLED

One Victim Was Crushed to Death In Wreckage of Automobile and Other Was Thrown Into Creek.

Norristown, Pa., May 8.—Two men believed to be William J. Engle, 2116 North Eleventh street, and Albert Herbert, 2423 North Twenty-sixth street, Philadelphia, the former a chauffeur employed by Mrs. Henry Gerstley, of the Hotel Majestic, were killed in a collision between an automobile and a trolley car at the foot of Skipack hill, six miles north of Norristown.

The chief clue to the identity of the men was the chauffeur's license tag, which bore what appears to me the number "1731 Penna. 1913." In the pockets of one of the men was found a bill for automobile supplies made out in the name of Gerstley. Both men were young, apparently between the ages of twenty-five and thirty years.

The two victims were traveling at a lively clip along the Reading pike at a particularly dangerous part of the road, when a wheel of their car struck a deep rut. The motor car jumped into the air, skidded and ran directly in front of the trolley car.

The motorman apparently had no chance even to slacken the speed of his car, and the automobile was caught between the trolley car and the stone wall of the bridge crossing Skipack creek, which flows at the foot of Skipack hill and another rising shortly to the north.

The automobile was crushed into a shapeless mass of tangled wreckage. One of the two occupants of the motor car was hurled clear of the machine into the creek, but he was killed by the impact and was not drowned.

The other never had the slightest chance. He was crushed in the machine and his body was mangled.

The bodies were recovered by the crew and passengers of the trolley car and were taken to the home of Samuel Galbum nearby.

The two hills which rise on either side from Skipack creek constitute a hard piece of road for automobilists to negotiate. These hills frequently have been used for hill-climbing contests and have proved too much for many drivers. The roadbed is fairly wide, but the incline is so great that once beyond control there is little chance for a motorist to get his machine under proper guidance.

AMERICAN MECHANICS MEET

State Council Elects Officers at Annual Session in Lancaster.

Lancaster, Pa., May 8.—At the session of the State Council of the Order of United American Mechanics the following officers were elected:

State councillor, D. P. Finkenbinder, Plainfield; state vice councillor, George B. Sill, Chester; state council secretary, H. M. Holstein, Harrisburg; state council treasurer, Charles H. Kurtz, Philadelphia; chaplain, A. P. Barnum, Allentown; inductor, E. M. Dorsheimer, Beaver Falls; examiner, H. O. Mueller, Philadelphia; inside protector, J. C. Myers, Pottsville; outside protector, John A. Randhous, Highspire; representative to National Council, Charles Blair, New Brighton. Shamokin was chosen as the next place of meeting.

RICH CEMENT FIND

Company Being Formed to Develop Deposit Near Auburn, Pa.

Pottsville, Pa., May 8.—Capitalists representing several counties in the state are forming a company which will develop the "find" of a mountain of cement six miles from Auburn, on the farm of Frank Strause.

Adam Brown, who made the discovery, says there are millions of tons of cement rock and the deposit lies for a full mile along the length of the mountain.

Richard J. McCaffrey, of Pottsville mining engineer and geologist, proclaims the grade of cement remarkable for its purity and adhesiveness. Several United States geologists have also tested and approved of the quality of the cement.

Pass "Blue Sky" Bill.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 8.—The Stein "blue sky" bill, regulating the sale of stocks and bonds and intended to protect the public from investment in fictitious or exaggerated offerings, passed the house on third reading. Stein amended it to compel brokers to furnish the state banking commissioner on request a list of investors' documents and papers.

$15,000 IN BAG AROUND NECK

Liner's Passenger Must Answer to a Smuggling Charge.

New York, May 8.—On the arrival of the liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie, from Bremen, Louis Baumgold, a cabin passenger, was arrested by special agents on the charge of smuggling diamonds and jewelry valued at $15,000.

Baumgold said that he had no jewelry to declare. He was searched and in a small leather bag tied around his neck were found a diamond studded gold bracelet, seven diamond rings and a number of unset diamonds.

"Squire's" House Dynamited

Hazleton, Pa., May 8.—The home of E. J. Dailey, of McAdoo, a justice of the peace, was dynamited and damaged to the extent of $1500. Part of the property was shattered and much of the furniture destroyed, but the family escaped uninjured. It is believed the dynamiting was the work of persons who had a grievance against the justice because of adverse decisions in litigation.

RUNAWAY GIRLS LIVED AS HERMITS

Found Nearly Starved After a Week on Mountains.

Plymouth, Pa., May 8.—Anxious to change the monotony of life, Florence Garland, seventeen years old, and Elizabeth Grew, sixteen years old, who lived neighbors in Scranton, decided to turn hermit, and after living one week in a hut on the mountains, west of here, nearly starved to death because they had nothing to eat but roots and herbs.

Police found the girls in a hut of their own construction after they had been informed of the girls' presence on the mountain.

The girls left Scranton one week ago, running away from home. They bought tickets to Plymouth, and upon reaching the city decided to become hermits. They journeyed to the mountain, built a hut of logs, branches and waste wood and then discovered that they were forced to feed themselves on herbs and roots.

Both were much afraid, and while one slept the other remained on guard at the door of the hut. Both were in a weak condition when found, and they were taken to Wilkes-Barre, where they will be held until their parents arrive.

EDITOR SEEKS A JOB

M. D. L. Shrope, of Easton, Pa., Would Be Public Printer.

Washington, May 8.—M. D. L. Shrope, editor and proprietor of the Journal, Easton, Pa., became a candidate for public printer.

Mr. Shrope is one of the chief lieutenants of Representative A. Mitchell Palmer. He had a long conference with Palmer relative to the appointment of a public printer and also in regard to other nominations giving recognition to union labor.

The Easton candidate has been a member of the printers' union for thirty-two years. It is believed that James M. Lynch, president of the Typographical union, has little chance of getting the place because of the strong opposition to him and that Mr. Shrope stands well up on the list. There are several other aspirants, most of them from the south.

Home Rule Bill Again in Commons

London, May 8.—The home rule for Ireland bill was reintroduced in the house of commons by Premier Asquith. It was read a first time under the standing order of the house which debates debate and will come up for second reading on June 2.

BLOOD POISONING.

It is Invariably Caused by Bacterial Infection of a Wound.

The best of domestic surgery is blood poisoning. Blood poisoning, or septicemia, as surgeons call it, is not caused by colored stockings, dyes, chemicals or anything of that kind. It is invariably caused by bacterial infection of a wound. The wound may be a mere pin prick or it may be a large wound. It makes no difference what implement produces the wound. The question is, Was the implement covered with germs? No matter what metal it may be made of, if the implement is clean—i. e., surgically sterile—and if the skin about the wounded part is clean, there is no likelihood of blood poisoning following.

When blood poisoning does occur it announces itself by characteristic signs. First there is general chilliness, with perhaps light headache and general aches such as one feels with an oncoming fever. The wounded part swells, burns, becomes throbbingly painful and stops discharging for a time. Then within a few hours red streaks may be seen extending up the extremity to the glands in bend of elbow, knee, groin or armpit. Such signs are always serious, though generally disappearing upon the institution of proper surgical treatment.

For general purposes where an antiseptic is desired one of the safest and most satisfactory to use is ordinary tincture of iodine—not the colorless iodine, which isn't iodine at all, but the brown tincture. A few drops or a teaspoonful of this in a pint or less of water makes a valuable gargle, mouth wash or a wash for irrigating a wound.

How He Was Paid.

An office boy employed by a firm of shipbuilders, in answer to the query as to his occupation, stated that he was "an office yard and any odd jobs, etc." Doubtless the et cetera was eloquent with meaning to the youth himself, and he may congratulate himself on having come as near to the truth as an engineering apprentice to the same firm, who contrived to crowd into the limited space provided for the reply to the question as to how he was paid, "Salary or wages?" The illuminating answer, "In envelope, through little window," Glasgow News.

Made the Most of It.

The American love of the superlative has an amusing illustration in Samuel M. Crothers' book "Humanly Speaking." Dr. Crothers had been traveling. He finally reached a seemingly sleepy little place where he thought to find only contented mediocrity. But when he sat down to write a letter on the hotel stationery he was confronted with the statement, "This is the biggest little hotel in the state!"

A Remarkable Feat.

Henry E. Dixey met a friend one afternoon on Broadway. "Well, Henry," exclaimed the friend, "you are looking fine! What do they feed you on?" "Chicken, mostly," replied Dixey. "You see, I am rehearsing in a play where I am to be a thief, so, just by way of getting into training for the part, I steal one of my own chickens every morning and have the cook broil it for me. I have accomplished the remarkable feat of eating thirty chickens in thirty consecutive days." "Great Scott!" exclaimed the friend. "Do you—like them?" "Yes, I do," replied Dixey. "And, what is better still, the chickens like me. Why, they have got so that when I sneak into the henhouse they all begin to cackle, 'I wish I was in Dixey.'"—Lippincott's.

BRYAN RETURNS TO WASHINGTON

Confers With President on Japanese Situation.

MIKADO'S PROTEST DELAYED

Secretary of State Leaves Capital Again Today and Will Not Return Until Monday.

Washington, May 8.—Secretary of State Bryan arrived here from Sacramento, Cal., this morning, where he went to prevent the passage of the alien land bill. This afternoon Mr. Bryan is conferring with President Wilson, and later he will leave for Baltimore, where he is to be the guest of honor at a dinner given by Charles H. Cravy, publisher of the Baltimore Sun.

From Baltimore Mr. Bryan will go to New York, where he is to speak in connection with the meetings of the international committee for the celebration of 100 years of peace between the United States and Great Britain. He is not expected at his office for business until Monday morning.

Some surprise was caused in Washington when Mr. Bryan's speech-making plans were learned, in view of the fact that all action in the California Japanese situation has been suspended by President Wilson pending Mr. Bryan's return.

Likewise Viscount Chinda, the Japanese ambassador, has been waiting Mr. Bryan's return to present to the federal government the objections his government entertains to the California legislation. Similarly Governor Johnson has been withholding his signature from the anti-Japanese bill passed by the California legislature pending Mr. Bryan's return to Washington, in the expectation that, following conferences between the president and Mr. Bryan and between Mr. Bryan and the Japanese ambassador, some communication from the federal authorities will be addressed to him.

He cannot hold up the bill indefinitely, however, as he must sign the bill within ten days after its passage or it will become void. The anti-Japanese bill was passed May 5, giving Governor Johnson until next Tuesday. Mr. Bryan will not be back at the state department until Monday next.

It was learned at the state department that the Japanese ambassador has not yet made an appointment to see Mr. Bryan. It was said at the embassy that nothing would be done in the way of making protest against the California bill until Mr. Bryan's return.

It likewise developed that the Chinese government expects to make formal protest against the California legislation. An informal protest has already been made to the state department on behalf of the Chinese government by Minister Chang.

WOMAN HECKLES CARNEGIE

Asks What Right He Has to Pose as American While Voting in Scotland.

London, May 8.—Miss Mae Scott-Troy, a San Francisco, Cal., suffragette, cabled to Andrew Carnegie as follows:

"What right have you to pose as an American citizen when you are registered as a voter in the parish of Dornoch, in the county of Sutherland, Scotland? You are voted No. 11 on the official list received by me from the sheriff of the county. Why did King Edward offer you a dukedom?" Mr. Carnegies is described on the voting list as "Occupation, gentleman. Place of residence, Skibo Castle."

TURNED INTO STONE.

Petrified Objects Are Common in Regions Where Limestone Prevails.

Petrified objects are found in a great many sections of the world, most of them in sections where limestone is prevalent.

Petrified wood is quite common. Bits of wood pieces of bark and small whigs are the more common, but in some places whole logs are found, and these are so well petrified as to show the bark as perfect as when the tree was growing. Different kinds of wood petrify. It depends more on the amount of lime than on the quality of timber.

In Arizona whole trees are petrified and, in fact, whole forests have been turned into stone, and some wonderful specimens are to be found there. The petrified trees are sometimes cut up and converted into various articles of value.

For Diseased Udders.

Isolate a cow the moment she has anything wrong with her udder and milk her last. Poultice the udder with hot oatmeal porridge in a wide bandage without holes being cut for teats. Twice daily rub well with a mixture of equal parts warm melted lard and fluid extract of poke root and belladonna leaves. Give a pound dose of epsom salts in three parts warm water as one dose and follow with a half ounce of fluid extract of poke root and two drams of sulphur three times daily in water.—Dr. A. S. Alexander.

Sea Horses.

Sea horses, like those of the land variety, are not all of one color, nor are they all of one size. According to a recent bulletin of the New York Zoological society, specimens secured for the aquarium last summer were pure yellow, others pure brown and others variously blotched. There were an unusual number along the coast in the summer of 1912. Among those obtained by the aquarium one male specimen was the largest ever captured. The longest ever noted before was fewer than six inches in length. The big one caught last summer was seven and one-quarter inches long.—New York Tribune.

DR. LYMAN ABBOTT.

Militant Articles in Outlook Cause Peace Society to Drop Him.

The brow of the distinguished editor has not been furrowed by worry since he was ousted from membership in the American Peace society. "If they don't like the tone of the articles I don't know what they are going to do. I don't propose to change my own opinions or my editorial policy to remain a member of the society. I believe in keeping a strong navy so that our nation will never have to fight," he says.

TWO MEN KILLED IN GUNMEN'S WAR

Street Murders Stir New York Detectives.

New York, May 8.—Within a few hours after gunmen had shot down and killed an eighteen-year-old youth on the plaza of the Williamsburg bridge, an unidentified Italian, who is thought to be Antonio Scamorino, of Dayton, Ohio, was killed by an assassin as he was walking along East One Hundred and Sixth street, in Harlem's Little Italy.

The murderer fired from the shadow of a doorway and his bullet went clean to the mark in his victim's head. The assassin used a shotgun and managed to take it away with him when he escaped.

The youth who was shot on the bridge was David Minzer, of 132 Rutledge street, Williamsburg. Three men walked up to him while thousands of persons were on their way home over the bridge. One of them placed a revolver against Minzer's back and groed, the youth dropping dead as the bullet penetrated his heart.

The police arrested two men upon charges of homicide and another man as a witness to the murder. The shooting is ascribed to a war of gangs in Williamsburg.

With the murder of two policemen and an Italian gunman in Mulberry street on Saturday night, five men have been shot and killed in the streets of New York in less than four days. The detectives have not as yet found any trace of the murderer of the two policemen, although every effort has been made to find him, and the search has extended all over the country.

Chinese Applied to Politics.

President Wilson was talking at a Princeton tea about giving out political offices, the one presidential task that he finds hateful.

"I suppose," he said, "that I shall have to get some one to handle my office seekers as the Chinaman handles the tramps."

"A Chinese cook in Princeton had one inevitable way of treating tramps. This a knock would come at the kitchen door, and John would appear."

"Say, kin ye gimme suthin' teat?" the tramp would mutter huskily. "Like fish?" John would ask.

"Sure. Sure I like fish."

"Call Filday!"

The Black Man's Burden.

Bradford Knapp of the department of agriculture reached a town in Mississippi where an immigration agent was there. An aged negro stopped to listen as the agent's work was under discussion.

"Boss," he finally inquired, "who is dis yere emmy-gration man?" It was explained that the agent was an employee of a railroad company trying to induce more white people to locate in the south.

"Boss," said the negro as he stabled on his way, "us niggers has got no white folks down here now dan we can take care ob."

Three Stars.

It was Louis Fuller, the famous dancer, who introduced Dumas the younger to Flammarion when they met in her dressing room at the Athenaeum. She tells of it in "Fifteen Years of a Dancer's Life."

"Is it possible that the two most distinguished personalities in Paris are not acquainted with each other?" she said. "It is not so remarkable," replied Dumas, "for you see Flammarion dwells in space, and I am just a cumberer of the earth." "Yes," said Flammarion, "but a little star came out of the west has brought us together."

Twenty Drown in Flood.

Natchez, Miss., May 3.—Twenty colored men refugees were drowned, it was reported, when the steamer Cordia, engaged in rescue work in the upper Louisiana, struck a rail on bridge at Clayton, La., and sank. One white man was believed to have been drowned.

CALCULATING INTEREST.

Formulas Which Involve Fractions in No Part of the Figuring.

In a recent issue you quote a formula for calculating interest on any number of days at 6 per cent. If you will grant me the space I will submit several formulas absolutely correct and involving fractions in no part of the operation.

Before stating them I will say if the principal consists of dollars alone the first two right hand figures must be pointed off for cents. If, however, it consists of dollars and cents, then the first four on the right must be cut off.

P—Principal.
D—Number of days.
1 per cent. PxD, divide by 360.
1 1/2 per cent. PxD, divide by 240.
2 per cent. PxD, divide by 180.
2 1/2 per cent. PxD, divide by 144.
3 per cent. PxD, divide by 120.
3 1/2 per cent. PxD, divide by 108.
4 per cent. PxD, divide by 90.
4 1/2 per cent. PxD, divide by 80.
5 per cent. PxD, divide by 72.
6 per cent. PxD, divide by 60.
6 1/2 per cent. PxD, divide by 48.
7 per cent. PxD, divide by 45.
7 1/2 per cent. PxD, divide by 40.
8 per cent. PxD, divide by 36.
8 1/2 per cent. PxD, divide by 32.
9 per cent. PxD, divide by 30.
10 per cent. PxD, divide by 24.
11 per cent. PxD, divide by 20.
12 per cent. PxD, divide by 18.
12 1/2 per cent. PxD, divide by 144.

To those who are not quick in finding the number of days between two given dates, I would suggest the following method, simple and correct: Example: Find the number of days from March 27 to July 24, inclusive:

5 more days in March.
30 days in April.
31 days in May.
30 days in June.
24 days in July.

180 days, answer.

The above formulas will be found very handy and time saving to one whose business calculations require the use of different rates.—Sherman (Tex.) Cor. Dallas News.

TIMELY HINTS FOR FARMERS

Feeding the Dairy Calf.

In growing the heifer calf for future usefulness in the dairy it is essential that the calf be so fed and handled as to prevent the development of fat forming tendencies. On the other hand, the feeding and care should be such as to produce a good muscle development, large bone structure and at the same time the calf kept in a thrifty condition. These facts are responsible for the statement that the cow as a milk producer can be ruined while she is still a calf. Those feeds which are good for the cow giving milk are the feeds which will develop the proper body structure for the calf. Those feeds which are conducive to the development of large paunch capacity and necessarily are coarse feeds, such as alfalfa hay, clover hay, etc. This kind of winter feeding will build up a strong digestion and capability of handling large quantities of feed. The fat heifer calf should be avoided.—Kansas Farmer.

Smithson is Reinstated.
Debarred from the Stockholm Olympic games and kept out of amateur athletics for more than a year, Forrest Smithson, holder of the world's record for the sixty yard and seventy-five yard low hurdles, is now competing again.

Smithson was debarred from amateur competitions after entering at the Pacific coast Olympic tryouts as an unattached athlete, although the Los Angeles Athletic club had advanced his entrance fee and part of his expenses. These advances have been repaid, and it was agreed that Smithson had been sufficiently punished.

FALLING HAIR

Many People Have a Simple Way of Stopping It

It was Dr. Sangerbond, of Paris, who first discovered that dandruff and falling hair were caused by a microbe.

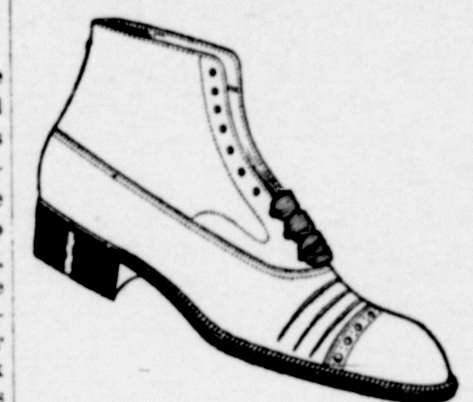

And now that Parisian Sage, the remedy that kills the dandruff germ is sold in every town in America, the clean people of this country have awakened to the fact that dandruff is unnecessary; that falling hair and itching scalp can be quickly stopped, and that people who use Parisian Sage will never grow bald.

To every reader of Gettysburg Times who wishes to eradicate disgusting dandruff, stop falling hair, and have an immaculate clean scalp, free from itchiness, we make this offer:

Parisian Sage is sold by druggists everywhere, for 50 cents a large bottle. It is an ideal, daintily perfumed hair dressing, free from grease and stickiness, and will cause hair to grow lustrous and luxuriant. Sold and guaranteed by People's Drug Store.

Big Surprise to Many in Gettysburg

Local people are surprised at the QUICK results received from simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka, the German remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis. H. C. Landau states that this simple remedy draws off such a surprising amount of old foul matter from the body that A SINGLE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation INSTANTLY.

Good Advertising Is News.

Manufacturers, merchants, and others who use the advertising columns of THE TIMES no longer regard their expenditures in the light of expense, but of investment.

Now that advertising is being purged of exaggeration and untruth, the reading public, especially that large circle of TIMES readers who receive the paper at their homes or carefully carry it home with them each day, take as much interest in the advertisements as they do in the news.

After all, TIMES advertising is news of the most interesting, instructive, and profitable kind.

And if it is a good investment for the advertiser to place his news before you constantly it is equally profitable for our readers to read attentively the valuable information thus imparted.
